Volume 21
St. Joseph High School
Cleveland, Ohio

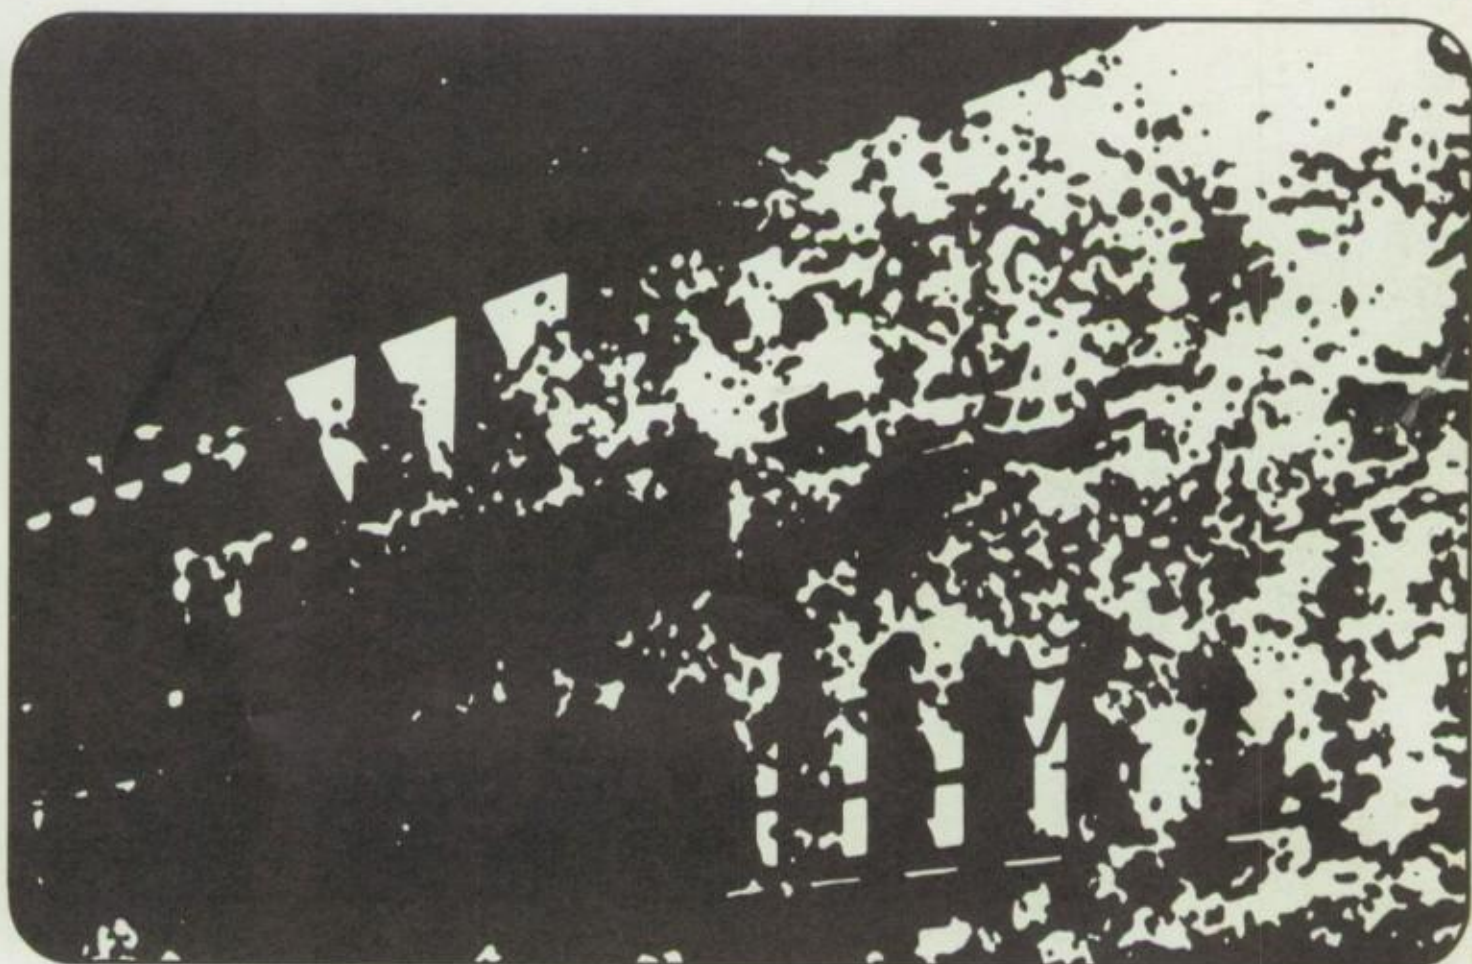

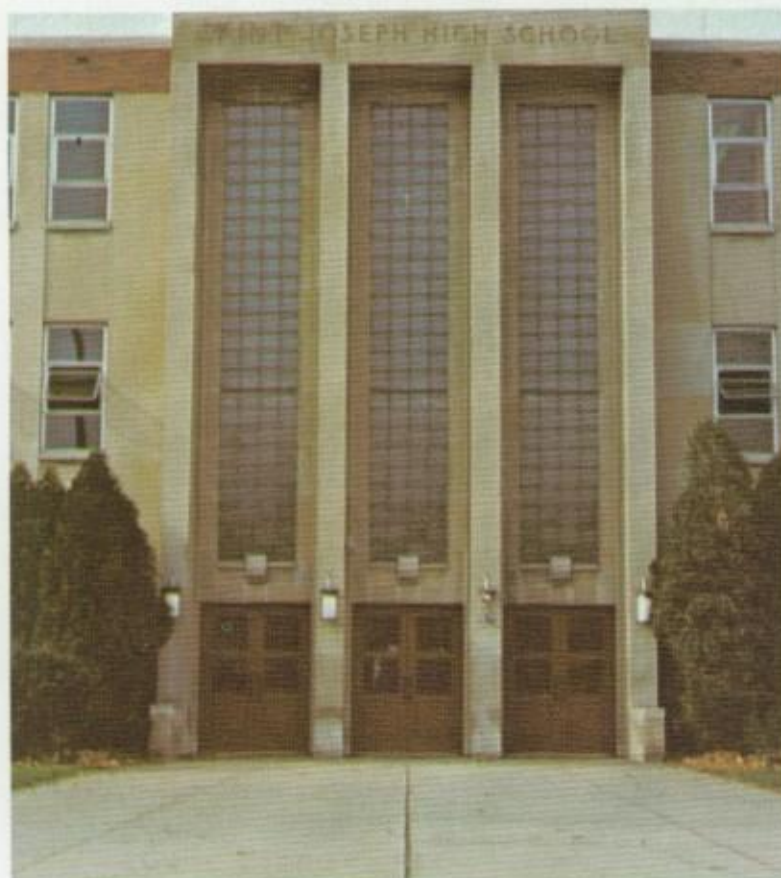

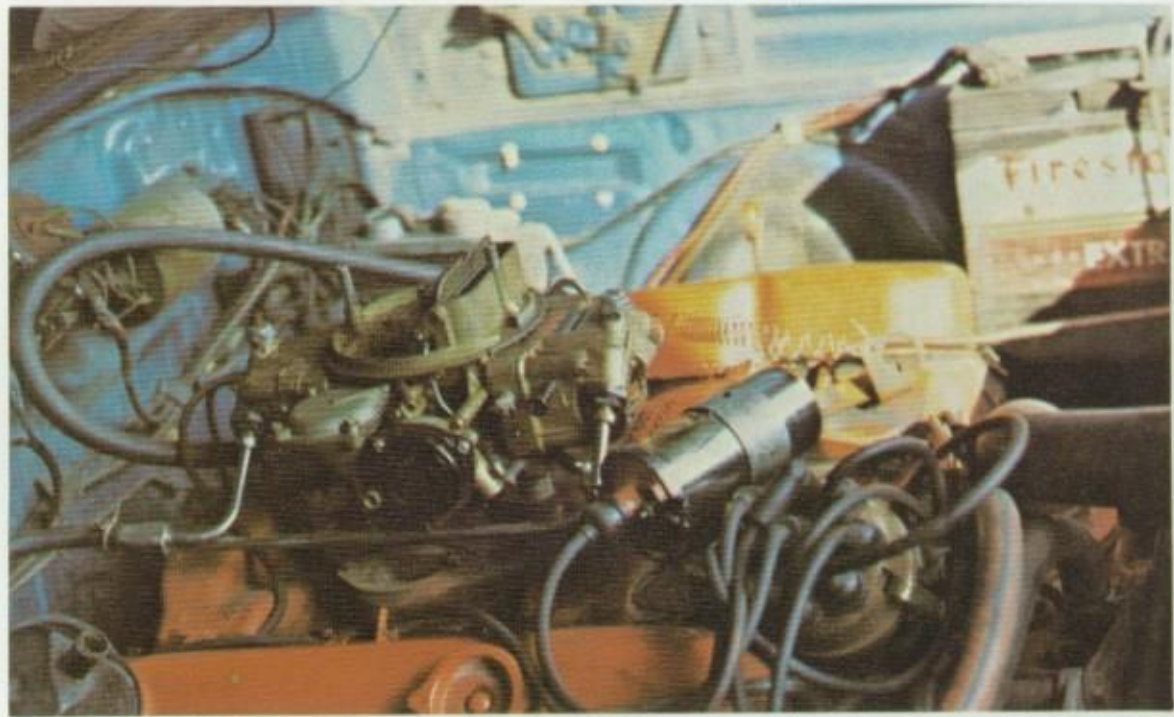

This is the Twenty-First edition of the VIKING. It gives to you the reader, a portable recap of the places, times, and events, that were associated with the 1973-1974 school year. This book represents a return to conformity, but with this traditionalism comes our own new innovations to the already accepted. You will soon notice that the copy for individual sections is now centralized in a sixteen page story. The story itself follows the general layout of the book. The purpose of this story is to fill in the gaps that the pictures leave. Also the staff has introduced many new ideas in modern graphics to the book. The addition of an

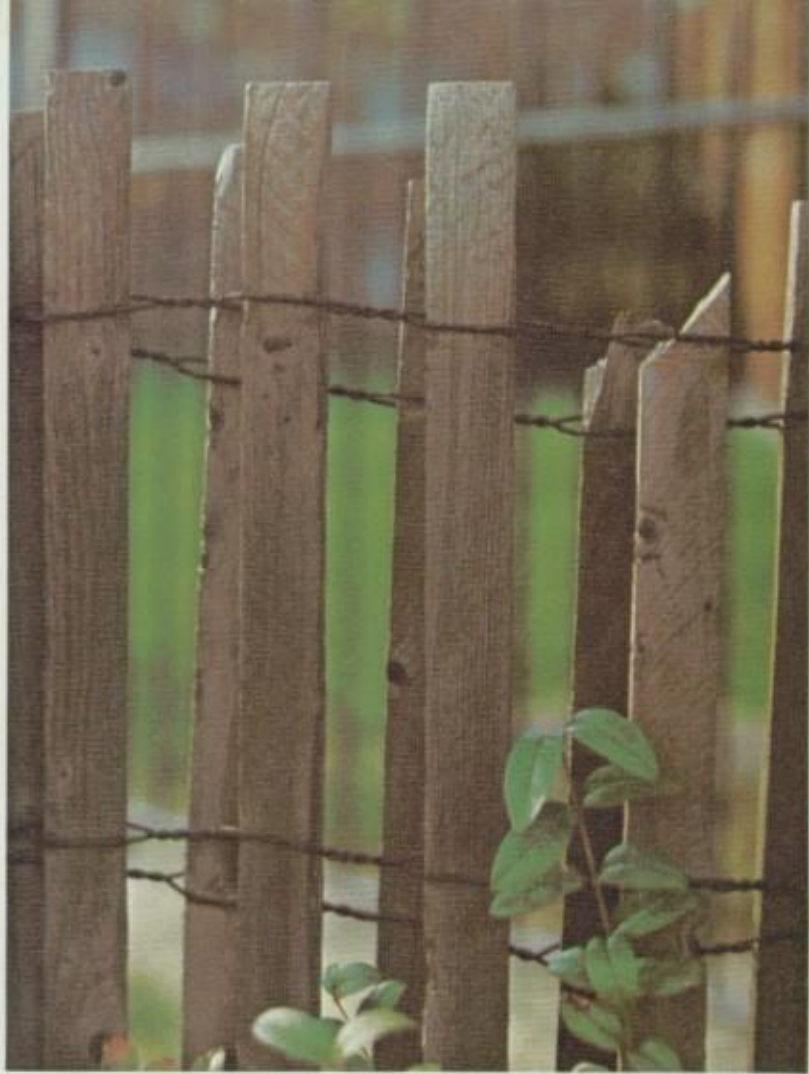

Academics section to the book was also accomplished this year, for all of us spend six hours a day in class and this section may help you in remembering those classes you enjoyed and those you disliked. One of the first things that you will notice is the lack of a dedication. To us, it seemed like a popularity contest on who's your favorite teacher. We also felt that last year's dedication rightfully ended the tradition. We hope the efforts we put forward in this book will be appreciated in the years to come as a time capsule of a great part of our lives.

author JAMES E. MATOH

"Don't Let It Get You Down," is a story of events that have shaped and influenced our lives here at St. Joes. for the past four years. This story is only a generalization that can stimulate your memory so far, it is up to you to supply the specifics. Whether they be good or bad, the memories are yours. The story is to aide you in recalling from the depths of your mind these events; events you experienced here that you may hold meaningful and will wish to remember in the future.

On September 9, 1970, St. Joseph High School opened it's doors for the sixteenth time to greet a new class. The group, the Class of '74, was made up of nearly five-hundred young men, each an individual. The school itself was not new to most of us, as many had been inside before, whether it be for a basketball game, Open House, or registration interview, but somehow this day seemed different. It seemed as though we really belonged here. As of this day, there were five-hundred new Vikings, each curious and anxious to find what was ahead of him.

As is typical of the freshman, most of us were somewhat unsure of what would happen, and there were very few who were not genuinely nervous. We had all heard the myths that were circulating about what happens on the first day of high school, but this was something each had to face on his own.

The problem of adjusting to this new way of life was further compounded by the intricate modular scheduling system, which had been instituted only the year before and was still new to the school itself. "Free mods" were a new phenomenon to us, and it seemed strange that no one told us what to do with this unstructured time. The options of study in the library, lunch in the cafeteria, or relaxation in the bleachers were all signs of the new responsibility that came with being high school students.

The day itself provided some anxious moments for many. How many of you, for example, looked with dismay at your schedules and found that your next class was in a room numbered T3, and your other classes were all held in a room numbers such as 216, 105, or 310? Or how many of you got to a class on time only to find that you were in a senior religion class? Such happenings were not uncommon, and though they may have seemed grave at the time, we now can laugh about them.

The next evening, we received our first taste of the much discussed and heralded Viking Spirit. The occasion was, of course, the annual bonfire, where we got our first look at the men who would carry the Red and Blue onto the gridiron against our arch rival, The Euclid Panthers. The Vikings brought into the game a 20 game winning streak. The team, however, was upset by Euclid in a 16-14 squeaker. They rebounded, though, and led by junior quarterback Greg Kokal and seniors Mike Modzelewski on offense, and Ken Novak and Dave Pasqualone on defense, the gridgers upset state-ranked Cincinnati St. Xavier in a 14-12 thriller. The big game, though, was against Crown Conference rival St. Edward.

For the second straight year, the game was held at Cleveland Stadium, and the Eagles were not to be denied, as they turned back the Vikings by a 21-14 tally on a frozen field.

On the freshman level, coach Chuck Walukas chose his team from nearly 200 hopefuls, and the mini-Vikes compiled a 4-3 record, playing a tough schedule. The team looked especially good in defeating Crown Conference opponents Cathedral Latin, Padua, and Chanel by wide margins. With Frank Pasqualone, Lou Oslin, and Tom Zerbian leading the way, the team gave every indication of maturing into another fine varsity squad.

The basketball team proved to be somewhat of a disappointment. Picked to be an area favorite, the team featured Jim Lyons, Jeff LaCava, and big Ken Novak. The team had to contend with a crippling injury to Jim Lyons, and Jeff LaCava's illness. carrying a 12-6 record into the tournaments, the B-ballers were eliminated by Cleveland Heights in their initial start.

1970-71 was a year of discovery for freshman. We discovered that the elevator passes, bonfire tickets, and library cards that we had bought from upper classman were fraudulent. We found a religion class that did not seem to teach religion, and teachers who seemed to demand more from us than any had done earlier. Such men as Mario D'Alanno and Frank Kirchendorfer seemed to be tyrannical at times, but teachers with their experience and ability truly got the most from their students.

Those of us who were not sports-minded still found ample opportunities to show their talent in other areas, notably, the musical and drama club. The drama club, with faculty moderator John McMahon put on two successful productions; "Romanoff and Juliet" and "Don't Drink the Water". The musical presented their rendition of the popular movie, "Mame".

Politics, also, captured the interests of many. The freshman class chose Gary Minadeo as President, Roger Blazic Vice-president, Tim Adams, Secretary, and Russ Berzin, Treasurer. The treasury was built up with highly successful roller-skating parties and coat-check duties at dances and other social functions. Homeroom duties were held by others, and all got an idea of student government in action.

The year, however, was not entirely happy. Financial difficulties were rather troublesome and disheartening to all. Attempts were made to combat them and despite the success of the candy sale, tuition was raised from $450 to $500 for '71-72'.

As the year drew to a close, we all sensed that we had had a great experience. The 500 individuals who had entered the school nine months earlier emerged in June as one united body, anxiously anticipating the new position that we would occupy as Sophomores.

The St. Joes that we returned to in September 1971 was vastly different from the one we had left in June. Changes began at the top of the administration with switch in principals from Bro. Phillip Aaron S.M. to a layman, Mr. Joseph Radican from the Social Studies Department. This occasion marked the first time in the school's history that a layman had assumed this difficult task. The position of librarian, previously held by Mr. Bobby, "Get outta my library, boy" Appleton, was taken over by Mr. Anthony Lekan, from the English dept. The student body itself had also undergone some rather profound changes, primarily in numbers. Due to the $50 increase in tuition, many students were forced to leave the school, with our own class losing about 30 students. The incoming freshman class, too, was considerably smaller. Increased operating costs had caused class rooms to become more crowded, yet the educational process continued.

The slogan for the year was "Bringing it all back home," and a high degree of unity among the students prevailed. This unity was again displayed for the initial time at the bonfire. It was a revenge-hungry team that was presented to Viking supporters that night. The team was highly touted and a favorite to win the Crown. The team sported High School All-American Ken Novak, returning letterman Greg Kokal, Carl Spike, and co-captain Dave Spagnola.

The gridgers avenged the previous year's defeat by stopping the Panthers 7-0. They then marched through Collinwood, but were struck down for the next three weeks by shutouts.

The most exciting game of the season proved to be the St. Edward game. After dropping behind early in the game, the team bounced back, and with the Eagles leading 21-14 late in the game, senior co-captain Bill Grebenc plunged over from the two to bring the Vikings to within one point. The decision was made to go for the win, but a pass from Greg Kokal to Ed Rock was ruled out-of-bounds, in a controversial play, and the team was defeated.

Football, though exciting, was not the only thing happening at St. Joes. Academics played a very important role, especially for sophomores. With the wide variety of courses offered, many of us found that our schedules only allowed for one or two free mods per day. Such a predicament was especially hard to live with when those mods, usually used for lunch, came directly before a frog dissecting exercise in biology lab, or a strenuous game of blood ball in phys. ed. Sophomores ventured into academic areas such as geometry with Bro. Mierdirks, art culture with Bro. Grisez, and a strange sounding course called forensic techniques with one of the most well liked teachers, Mr. John McMahon.

As a relief from academic pressure, many students sought out the wide and varied system of clubs and organizations within the school. For the musically inclined, there was the marching band and the stage band. There were also such special interest clubs as mathematics, computer, cinema, and chess. In addition, there were plain, ordinary fun clubs such as the outdoors association, father and son bowling league, and the ski club. For those with literary talent, there were the student publications: the Norseman, Carpenter, and Viking. These clubs were all popular, and received strong support from our Sophomore Class.

The Class itself had a rather difficult year. With both the football and basketball teams experiencing less than spectacular seasons, it was hard to direct the class in any definite direction. President Gary Minadeo tried to get some momentum back into the class by holding a fund raising drive, the much maligned light bulb sale. Due to poor organization and timing, the sale proved to be a spectacular failure, putting the class deeper into debt. The final insult came to the sale when about $50 that the officers had collected along with a list of students holding bulbs, was stolen during the week of final exams. Total losses amounted to about $500.

Not only did the Sophomore class experience financial woes, but so did the entire school. Several fund raising drives, including the huge raffle and the Nationality Fair while successful, failed to make up the huge deficit the school had been operating under, and there was serious talk of closing the school. In the heart of this crisis, principal Joseph Radican went before television cameras and assured the entire city as well as the student body that the school would not close. In this extremely sticky situation, the class and confidence displayed by Mr. Radican was a source of pride to the entire St. Joes community. When all the talking was done, not only was the school to remain open, but our tuition was not raised one cent.

With the arrival of Summer, so came the halfway point of our high school years, and as the Class of '72 was saying farewell, the Class of '74 was making preparations for their upcoming Junior year. As they had done for two years previously, the class returned Gary Minadeo to the office of president, despite his loss of prestige in the light bulb sale. In addition to his duties as Class President, Gary was also to sit on the school Advisory Board, giving us our first real voice in the school policy formation.

With the title of junior came added responsibility to the Class of '74, and after a slow start, the class finally got back on the right track. The Junior Prom, which was in doubt for some time, did come off, and was well-enjoyed by the small crowd that did attend.

Although our tuition was not raised, the financial pinch definitely was felt. Several teachers, including such favorites as Mr. McMahon and Mr. Esch left our school. Many elective courses were dropped from the curriculum, and classrooms continued to become more crowded. Once again, enrollment dropped, further compounding existing financial problems.

Sports played a big role in '72-'73 as the football, basketball, and wrestling teams enjoyed great success. This was the "Year of the Hun", as the Viking gridders led on defense by Bob "Lurch" Coan, Pat Lauer, and Pete Marinich smashed many existing records on their way to a 6-2-2 season. The team was better than its record would indicate, however. Their most startling performance came on one rainy Saturday night on the mud-entrenched field of Heights High Stadium. Here, the Huns shut out the vaunted Cathedral Latin attack, led by their stand-out lineman Gary Jeter. The Vikings, playing the entire second half without Junior quarterback Frank Pasqualone could do little on offense. Although the game ended in a scoreless tie, it was a moral victory for the Vikes as the game ended when we stopped the Lions on our three yard line as they appeared to be heading for a score.

Basketball, too, provided thrills and chills for Viking supporters as a senior-laden squad rolled to a 17-1 regular season record. Tournament action saw outstanding performances by Joe Guilfoyle, Bruce Taylor, and Tim Cannon carry the team to the Sectional Championship, only to lose a 71-65 heartbreaker to John F. Kennedy in the game for the District Championship.

Wrestling, a sport little supported by Vikings, went quietly about the work of carving out a 11-1 record, and gaining second place in the district finals. Outstanding performances, including a first place in in the sectionals by Frank Nekic and third place wins by Gary Braun and Gary Ackerman in the districts, gave evidence of the individual effort required by the wrestlers who go about their jobs without the fanfare associated with football and basketball.

The Keyword for 1973 was talent, and talent abounded in the students who formed the Viking Community. With Jim Biondolillo, Tim Gorman, and an innovative Spirit Committee leading the way, students were treated to the most exciting and entertaining rallies in many years. The annual musical extravaganza provided an excellent outlet for student talent as "George M" continually played to full-house crowds. The lead roles were played by Jim Biondolillo and Junior Joe Smiga. Talent was also displayed in the fabulous senior show, where the Class of '73 showed off their abilities and took some shots at members of our faculty and administration.

Again, however, money problems, which had long plagued the Catholic schools popped up, but in a rather different way. CHALTA (The Catholic High School and Academy Lay Teacher's Association) is the organization to which all of our lay teachers belonged. Unsatisfied with their contract negotiations they held three Work-Study Days" which amounted to a strike and three days off from school for students. While they held their meetings and negotiated, the students waited nervously in the gym in hopes that the negotiations would fail. Although Mr. Farrell and other administrators assured the waiting students that classes would be held, it seemed that they were merely trying to buy time and hoping to maintain some semblance of order among the nervous congregation.

This was also the year of the $10,000 Student Council, as Pres. Bob Jaquay and Vice-Pres. Bob Boyd combined experience and leadership ability to provide one of the most profitable and successful administrations. The highly successful mixers pumped revenue into the treasury, while student interest was kept alive with a series of highly successful and entertaining Mini-Courses and assemblies, notably on "Weather" and the mini-course which featured the widely acclaimed movie "Brian's Song", for which no admission was charged.

Academically, too, St. Joes prospered in '72-'73. National Merit Scholarship were won by three of our seniors, with many others receiving scholarships to some of nation's finest universities. The school also entered a team in the television quiz show, "Academic Challenge" which, unfortunately, was narrowly edged in it's initial competition.

As June rolled into the picture, the Senior class, numbering 400 was graduated in style at Public Hall, and the Class of '74 was forced to make that big leap into the position of Senior, and to lead the school ahead.

Student Life

As the summer of 1973 arrived, the class of '74' was working busily in hopes of having a great year. The cards, however, seemed stacked against us. First of all, there was the fact that Euclid, our traditional opening football game rival, had dropped us from their schedule. Also cancelled was the bonfire which had kicked-off the football season for as many years as most of us could remember, an ominous note to begin the season on. There also seemed to be a type of "law" of consecutivity against us, which basically dictated that a good football team was followed by a weaker one. By examining our four years at St. Joe we can see that this law is in effect. Our freshman year, we recall, our frosh team was outstanding, followed by a 4-3-1 J-V record sophomore year. 1972-1973 seemed to be a return to respectability with a team that was much better than it's 6-2-2 record. Hence, 1974 seemed destined to be a weak year sports wise. There was also the large matter that we were following the class of '73', one of the most successful in St. Joe history, both athletically as well as academically, and anything good that we might do would seem to be anti-climatic.

Thus, with all of the fates seemingly against our success, the year began. At the head of the student body were a quartet of fellow students who took over the Student Council offices. The top office, that of president, was held by Gary Minadeo, who after three years of experience as class president had amassed the experience needed for such a difficult task. Although his previous administration had been less than spectacular, he felt that the power allotted him in his new position would permit him to give a true account of himself. Serving as his right-hand man was vice-president Pete Cantanese, who, although never having held an elected office previously, did show the desire and ability needed for the great deal of communication work that the vice-president must do. Another newcomer to office was secretary Tom Neubert, who, in addition to being a member of the National Honor Society, had also run cross-country and played J.V. baseball. Handling the financial matters for the student body was Pat Erney, whose experience gained as Secretary of the junior class was instrumental in his learning his new duties as S.C. Treasurer.

More directly involved with the class of "74", however, were the senior officers. From a very large group of candidates, the senior class had chosen Ken Haffey as treasurer, Al McDonald as secretary, and after a great deal of confusion due to a new type of ballot being used, Tim Pogacar was named vice-president, and Ken Marver was pronounced president. The central issue of the campaign was the senior prom, the largest and final effort of the seniors.

Such was the political scene within the St. Joe community. Being seniors, however, many felt that it was time that they begin to take an interest in some of the larger issues confronting them, especially since many now had the right to vote. Such a task seemed to fall under the auspices of the Student Council Education Committee, with it's chairman, Remigius Belzinskis. Working hand-in-hand with the administration, Remigius arranged to have Cleveland mayoral candidates James Carney, and incumbent Ralph Perk speak to students on their respective platforms. With television cameras covering the action, Carney spoke to the entire student body in the morning part of the assembly. Unfortunately, students seemed to be more interested in the television cameras than the speaker, and missed Mr. Carney's artful dodging of the major issues of the campaign. A question and answer period followed, and

"Why do the cops hassle us when we are trying to have fun?" D. Airey students came to life as Dave Cerino charged that Carney had only moved to Cleveland for the campaign. The excitement and noise continued through the last question when Doug Airey asked his famous question, "Why do the cops always hassle us when we are trying to have fun?"

The afternoon portion of the assembly was rather sparsely attended, as most Seniors leave at 1:25, and it would take an act of God to make them remain longer, and many underclassmen took advantage of the assembly to cut out early. The assembly therefore had deteriorated largely to a group of screaming freshmen and sophomores who had little interest in the campaign to begin with. Mr. Perk, though, was better received than his predecessor, as he appealed to a large ethnic group at the school.

The question of why the assembly was held was brought up by students and faculty alike, especially considering that there were very few seniors who had reached the age of eighteen, and even fewer who lived in Cleveland and would have been able to vote in the election. The general consensus seemed to be that the speakers came to do some public relations work, and hoped that they might impress the students to influence their parents in their voting. As it was, a few weeks after the assembly, Mr. Carney announced his withdrawal from the campaign, thus, nearly assuring the victory of Mr. Perk.

The political scene hit closer to home, when our vice-principal, Mr. Joseph Farrell announced his candidacy for councilman in ward 1 of Euclid. A great deal of campaign literature was circulated, and "Farrell in the First" bumper stickers adorned the cars of many members of the faculty and student body alike. When election day finally arrived in November, Farrell was not disappointed. Due to his charisma, his go-getter attitude, his popularity gained from his job at the school, and largely to the inefficiency of the previous administration, Farrell won an impressive victory over the incumbent councilman. Although a councilman is rather low on the political totem pole, many are wondering if he will be satisfied with this position. After all, hasn't Tim McCormack made great strides in the political field? Like a distant star on the political horizon, Farrell looms as a potential political power in the Euclid-Cleveland area. And who knows, some day we may be addressing him Senator Farrell or even Mr. President, that is, if he can tear himself away from St. Joe.

Homecoming, the fall weekend extravaganza, was held this year near the end of October. With senior Gary McCann as chairman of the Homecoming committee, the slogan for 73-74 was "Something Different", and different it was from beginning to end. The selection of the queen was handled in a manner unlike previous years. Those in charge of the affair this year decided that the queen should have more than beauty, namely some degree of involvement in the affairs of St. Joe. In order to facilitate this hope, they set up a selection committee made up of students and faculty to "screen out" those whom they felt would not be representative of the school. They then sent out invitations to some local Catholic girls schools to select those girls who were interested, as well as qualified by the committee's standards, in becoming St. Joe's Homecoming Queen.

As was hoped for, the schools invited seemed receptive to this new method to be employed in selecting a queen, and sent forth throngs of beauties, intent on filling this prestigious position. On alternate days, representatives from Notre Dame, Villa Angela, Regina, and Beaumont visited the school and were interviewed by the committee. Following the questioning, in what must have looked like a college admissions office, the members of the committee deliberated, and finally came forth with the eight girls from which the Vikings would choose their queen.

Following this preliminary selection process, the girls now faced their stiffest test, presenting their speeches to the St. Joe juniors and seniors. On the Thursday prior to Homecoming, the girls made these speeches, each consisting of the usual amount of sincerity and love for the school. One of the girls however, got a snicker out of the students when she spoke fondly of the good times she had had at "Mario's parties", a phrase which seemed especially familiar to the members of the football team. Another candidate tried to lead the assemblage in a rousing round of a favorite Viking cheer, "We are St. Joes", which seemed to fizzle out.

When all the speeches were through, the combined junior and senior classes elected pretty, blonde-haired Karen Purneski from Notre Dame. Her court was made up of; Molly Dienhart (Villa Angela), Mary Dowd (Notre Dame), Laurie Milner (Villa Angela), and Debbie Mastreangelo (Regina). The queen and her court were presented to the students at the Homecoming Premier, the Friday prior to Homecoming.

With the queen selected, the Homecoming committee now moved on to the next task, that of planning the actual Homecoming weekend. The dance, over the objections of the football team, who were only allowed to be present for part because of curfew, was to be held on Friday night. In keeping with the idea of something different, the committee decided on the theme of "Casino Royale" on which to base the dance. The gymnasium was decorated like a miniature Ceasar's Palace, and millions of dollars in play money was gambled on the Big Wheel, crap tables, and assorted card games. Stuffed animals were awarded to those who fared best in the gambling. Music was provided by a comical group of musicians called "Wimpy", in addition to our own stage band, which featured such all-time St. Joe favorites as "In the Mood" and "Pink Panther".

The following night featured further changes for Viking supporters. Because of a new all-weather track installed at Euclid Stadium, the traditional half-time parading of the queen and her court was done away with. Not wishing to be robbed of this exciting part of the weekend, the committee arranged to have a huge motorcade from St. Joe to Euclid preceding the game, featuring queen Karen and her court.

The most pleasing change of all, however, seemed to be in the football team itself. Led by an opening kickoff return for a touchdown by John Ferrante, the team went on to whip Crown Conference rival, Cathedral Latin by a 31-0 tally, capping off a perfect weekend.

Rallies, so much a part of all that is St. Joe, seemed to be less than successful. The fault however, does not seem to lie so much with the Spirit committee, as with the changing attitudes among the students. With our teams faring badly, the Viking spirit and pride seemed to be less evident than in the past, and this was reflected in the lack of student interest in the rallies. Or, it may have been that students became "spoiled" by last year's rallies, which consistently were quite entertaining, but had little cheering and yelling. The students had only to sit back and enjoy. This year's rallies, how-

"They didn't stand when the band played 'When the Saints Go Marching In'. They always stood when that song was played." G. Minadeo ever, called for more student participation, which students were unwilling to give. Especially disastrous was the combined basketball-wrestling rally, in which the players were pelted with rubber grips from the bottom of the chairs by unthinking students. Student Council President, Gary Minadeo expressed his disbelief over the situation when he said, "They didn't stand when the band played 'When the Saints Go Marching In'. They always stood when that song was played." The Administration and coaches also, seemed quite displeased about the rally, as further requests for other rallies were denied.

The 1973-1974 year, as in the past, featured a series of Student Council mixers, designed to pump needed revenue into the treasury, in addition to giving St. Joe students an opportunity to meet members of the opposite sex, and to help break up the monotony of the school year. Local groups provided the music for these get-togethers, but there were many students who never seemed to hear it because of their drunken condition. Seniors, because of their lofty position in the school, were given the added privilege of being admitted to these dances at no charge in hopes of getting a better representation of student at these affairs. As an added enticement, senior girls from other schools were admitted for half price. Although many of the dances seemed to be repetitions of the preceding ones, there was one in particular which seemed to stand out in the minds of many.

In mid-November, Student Council sponsored a dance which was billed as the "Senior Dance". Through a special arrangement with the Student Council officers, the senior class had arranged, instead of receiving a budget, to be given the revenue from one dance which Student Council would sponsor. A novel idea was proposed by Neal "wanna buy a square" Jacobs, who suggested that the dance be a 50's greaser dance, featuring music from the early history of rock and roll. To provide this music, which was experiencing a resurgence of popularity, the class enlisted the services of a group known as the "Dew-Wops", who were quite experienced at this style. The dance received a great deal of publicity in local papers, and among seniors, as it was especially designed to get money for the senior prom. To encourage authenticity and attendance, prizes were offered to those who were dressed closest to that of the 1950's. Even though the "Dew-Wops" performed admirably, they were overshadowed by a group made up of St. Joe students, Neal Jacobs, Joe Smiga, Larry Samuels and Al McDonald known as the "Dull Vikings", an obvious mimicry of the group called the "Del-Vikings" which enjoyed a great deal of popularity in the 50's. The St. Joe group gave their renditions of such favorites as the "Del-Vikings" hit, "Come Go With Me" in addition to "Earth Angel", "At the hop" and "Why Must I Be a Teenager In Love". Although at the time, many questioned the soberness of the "Dull-Vikings", let it suffice to say that it took a great deal of courage to perform as they did, and any bolstering of this courage was in the line of duty.

The dance proved quite successful. The seniors received an amount of badly needed revenue, guys like Bill Kemper were in their glory in the midst of the surroundings, and Neal Jacobs was in the center of it all and seemed to fit perfectly in the spotlight. It seems likely that future classes might capitalize on this idea, for which they owe gratitude to the class of '74.

After witnessing the success of this dance, Student Council saw the opportunity to build up their depleted coffers and give the entire student body a chance for excitement. In a bold stroke they arranged to have the nationally popular group "Spirit" appear at the school along with another band called "Rainbow Canyon". Not since 1970 with the "Grass Roots" and "Raspberries" concert has Student Council attempted to bring a top-name group to the school. In mid-February, "Spirit" made their appearance at the school before a somewhat disappointing crowd of 1200, in a show hosted by a disc jockey from WIXY radio, Terry Stephens.

Although when the final tally had been completed and the officers found that they "had almost broken even", in the words of Pat Erney, they had proven that students can on their own, arrange for a large financial expenditure, take responsibility for it's success and carry the entire thing off smoothly. Although the operation depended upon excellent organization and a great deal of risk, the officers assumed the responsibility readily and carried it through.

"We had almost broken even."

In addition to this concert, the fund-raising activities of Student Council took a more humorous tone in the fashion of basketball, shortly after Christmas. With the help of some of the more courageous members of the faculty, Student Council arranged to have the Cleveland Indians play our faculty in a benefit b-ball game for St. Joes. Although our faculty was high in courage and motivation, they were distressingly low in talent, as the Indian team ran our representatives off the court in a game that was never close, despite the heroic efforts of such teachers as Bob Straub, Gary Nowac and "Rugged" Frank Macuga. Commenting in a post-game interview, faculty guard Tim Robertson lamented, "If we had more of a chance to practice, we could have given a better account of ourselves." Although this excuse seemed valid, it is somewhat doubtful that our men could have beaten a group of professional athletes, even at a sport other than their speciality. Especially damaging to the cause

"If we had more of a chance to practice, we could have given a better account of ourselves." T. Robertson

"He could hit shots from anywhere on the court. I've never seen anything like it." F. Macuga of the faculty were the efforts of two Indians in particular, six-foot six-inch Tom Timmerman, and infielder Buddy Bell, who was a three letter standout at Cincinnati Moeller High School. About Bell, Frank Macuga said, "He could hit shots from anywhere on the court. I've never seen anything like it."

Although the basketball game provided some laughs for students and faculty alike, it was not so funny to the Student Council officers, who took another financial punch on the chin, as the group of students who did show up was less than the throngs that the officers had hoped for. Special credit for bringing the Indians to St. Joe goes to seniors Edmund Gudenas and Remigius Belzinskas whose letter writing made it all possible.

1 973-74 could be called the "Year of the Indian", as in addition to the Indians basketball game, one of the team's members visited the school earlier in the year, along with a former player turned announcer. Walt Williams, tribe outfielder, who remained in Cleveland during the winter to help with promotional work visited the school with announcer Herb Score. Although "No-Neck" was somewhat tardy, he received quite an ovation upon his arrival. For nearly one hour, the duo traded barbs good-naturedly. Especially humorous were Score's comments about Walter's physique, which is not dissimilar to a bowling ball. Walter retorted, however, by pointing out that despite this physical handicap, that he was still one of the favorites of young and old fans alike. They finished their talk by encouraging the students to become regular fans, pointing out that fan support is curcial to success, a fact which St. Joe athletic teams had been proving for quite a time.

In addition to the Herb Score, Walt Williams assembly, students were also treated to another local celebrity, television weatherman Dick Goddard, who spoke to the students in early November about his career.

More informal talks were given by members from the Election Board, Better Business Bureau and Immigration and Naturalization Service. Although they were not presented to the student body as a whole, many individual teachers brought their classes to these mini-assemblies, usually held in room 231.

While the name of St. Joe is continually splashed over the newspapers during football and basketball season, there is one activity which receives a lot less publicity, but never experiences a losing season. This activity is, of course, the annual spring musical. Combining the efforts of literally hundreds of students, faculty and other interested individuals, the musical is the highlight of the post-Christmas academic year. Brother Gerard Dwyer serves as producer-director for the extravaganza and is faced with the task of co-ordinating the work of actors, stage crew members, singers, band members and dancers. He is not alone in this Herculean task, though. Assisting him are: Patty and Jackie Frazier, who put together the chorus lines which rival those of professional shows; Thomas Wiess, who is known as the man who sings the Star-Spangled Banner prior to Cleveland Browns football games, also serves as vocal coach for the musical, refining the voices of the actors; Mr. Norman Novak, band director is responsible for putting together the music that is characteristic of a great musical.

The 1973-1974 musical was the highly successful production "Hello Dolly". In pre-production auditions Bro. Dwyer chose three experienced seniors, Garry Mc-

"About this year's musical; it was one of our best one's." G. Dwyer

Cann, Joe Smiga, and Jim Polzner to play the leading male leads and Mary Lou Antonelli to play the dominant female lead. Playing on three weekends in late February and early March, the musical attracted large crowds, and did much to build-up the school's public relations, which had suffered through a slim sports year.

After the musical, life at the school seemed to settle down a great deal. With little to look forward to in the way of events or activities, students seemed to be merely enduring the period until Easter vacation. Easter vacation this year was truly something to anticipate. After hearing students complaints of previous vacations, the academic calander makers arranged for students to have a vacation extending from Holy Thursday through

Easter Sunday and the entire week following, for a total of eleven days. Previous vacations, you recall, had consisted of two weeks being split-up, or the vacation being the week before Easter. The new arrangement was quite pleasing to students and it is anticipated that it will be continued in the ensuing years.

Upon returning from vacation, St. Joe once again became a job of activity. The activity at this time, as usual, was centered around dual poles; to prepare for year-end activities, and for three of the classes, preparation for 1974-1975. Politically, elections were held for class officers of the class of 1975, 1976 and 1977, as well as Student Council officers. The sophomore class held their first big social event, the Sophomore Date-Dance, and the junior class was at work organizing their prom, which was paid for almost entirely from their burgeoning treasury.

The senior class, meanwhile, was busily engaged in making sure that the Class of '74 would go out in style. Scraping together their financial resources, they planned an elaborate weekend of events. In addition to paying for the prom, the seniors also allocated about $300 for a class gift to the school which was made a requirement by the administration. In arriving at this figure the administration was eager to make certain that the gift was of a large enough quantity that it would be put to good use. Keeping in mind the miniscule amount of the gift from the class of '73, the $300 figure was one of the first things added into the cost of the senior prom.

Probably the most memorable experience, however, and the one which culminated the entire four years at St. Joe for the seniors, was graduation. With ceremonies being held the first week in June, seniors were presented their diplomas at Public Hall in a classy ceremony which has become a custom at the school. The Baccalaureate Mass was held before graduation and as of June 5, the Class of 1974 was officially "outta of here."

"We're outta of here!"

Academics and Faculty

The purpose of any academic institution, supposedly, is that of educating it's students. The purpose of a Catholic institution, as we have been told, is to go one step further, and provide it's students with an intangible something extra called a Catholic or Christian education. The notion that a Catholic education means teaching religion is one which is quickly dispelled by the religion department, which teaches everything from sex education to psychology. This fact is particularly disturbing to parents, who upon discovering it, often ask in a distressed manner, "What am I paying $500 for?"

In defense of the Catholic system, proponents point to such concepts as; sense of community, spirit, and unity. One of the soundest defenses of the system was voiced

"Students don't think of the teachers as jailkeepers." F. Bokausek by a teacher who has been employed by both Catholic and public schools, Mr. Frank Bokausek, Spanish teacher. During a discussion on this exact topic, Mr. Bokausek said, "I think the main difference between the two lies in the 'friendly' atmosphere which surrounds Catholic schools. Not only do most students seem to know one another, but there is a healthy attitude toward teachers. By this, I mean that students don't think of the teachers as jailkeepers, nor do teachers tend to overstep their authority in dealing with students. Many students find that their most meaningful relationships may be with a teacher who expresses interest in them."

Whatever their reasons might be, annually, about 400 young men are drawn to St. Joe. Some come because their fathers went here, others for the excellent sports program, still others because most of their friends go here and some even come because they desire a good education, which they feel may not be available in their local public high school.

After coming to St. Joe, students discover that little attempt is made to pamper them. Most importantly, students find that a bundle of decisions must be made, and that they themselves must make them. Should I take a foreign language or tech? Should I enroll in an honors course? Should I use my free time to study or spend it outside or in the cafeteria? Such decisions, though not earth-shaking, may be traumatic for an entering freshman. In order to help students make these decisions more wisely, the school has provided them with an excellent guidance staff, which provides job counselors and a psychologist in addition to divisional counselors.

Academically, the students at St. Joe seem to be divided into two distinct groups; those planning to attend college after graduation, and those who intend on pursuing a technical career after leaving St. Joe. Foreign languages are generally chosen by the former, while the latter usually elect Introduction to Technology.

State and diocesan requirements account for the large bulk of a student's courses during his four years at the school. English and religion are four year requirements, and courses in math, art and music, social studies and phys. ed. are also needed to graduate. Aside from such requirements, students are free to design a program of their choosing according to strengths, interests, curiosities and future goals. Within these broad requirements, students are free to choose tracks, ranging from developmental through advanced placement courses.

Two programs which receive great support from students are the business and tech programs. The tech program captures the interests of several hundred students each year, many taking two or three courses. The courses cover subjects ranging from automotives through electricity, with the curriculum due to become expanded next year. After completing a series of courses in the program, students are usually equipped with the knowledge needed to get employment somewhere in the widely expanding field of technology.

The business program offers students an opportunity to explore a field which is one of the most interesting and profitable in our society today. The courses offered instruct students in how to manage their money (personal finance) as well as the finances of others. Accounting I and II also teaches the modern methods of Data Processing, although not of a pre-professional nature as is the tech program, it does offer students a chance to find their interest and many students continue their studies in college and universities across the country.

For those whose interest did not lie in these areas, there was an honors and advanced placement program, which spanned many of the more academic disciplines, namely English, math, and science. These programs, also received a great deal of support from the student body. According to course descriptions, each was supposed to be of a college level, with a standardized test to be given at the end of the year to determine if students had actually been learning at a college level. If the students score high enough on them, many colleges would award them credit, providing a saving of time and money. To gain this credit, though, the courses would have to be conducted on a very sophisticated level, by some of the schools better teachers.

In evaluating these programs, however, many students expressed some dissatisfaction over the academic level on which the courses were conducted. One student enrolled in the regular physics course lamented,

"We do the same amount of work as the guys in the advanced placement course. The only difference is that they all get A's." Similar complaints were voiced with regard to the A.P. course in English, although complaints abounded about these two courses, most students did seem satisfied with the A.P. courses in math. Through an arrangement with John Carroll University, students in these courses would automatically receive credit, without taking the A.P. tests referred to earlier. They too must have felt that the courses were being conducted on a college level.

Central to any academic community is an able faculty to pass knowledge along to the students. Being an academic community, St. Joe did provide it: students with a top notch group of instructors. Many of the teachers, especially those at the junior and senior level, had experience in teaching at the college level. At these levels, students seemed to single out such teachers as; Mr. Tim Robertson, Mr. Ralph Wroblewski and Mr. Jerome Lennon as among their favorites. Characteristic of these teachers was involvement with students not only in the classrooms, but in extra-curricular activities. In addition to this, all are department chairmen, meaning that they have a great deal to say with regard to academic programs and activities.

While these teachers kept students on their toes academically, instructors such as Bro. Mike O'Grady, Mr. Gene Oberst, Mr. Al Srp and Mr. Hank Wroblewski, the big guys of the faculty, kept students from becoming bookworms by helping to keep them laughing. Their ability to see the happy side of academic St. Joe, kept students from being overcome by the pressure associated with academics.

St. Joe can point with pride to some of its teachers who have literally become fixtures around the school. Men such as Mario D'Alanno, Bill Gutbrod, Al Srp, Tony Lekan and Bernie Guilfoyle have been at the school since its infancy. Bro. Gilbert Gensler has been teaching math since before many of our younger teachers were born, and has taught many of the men now on our faculty. Bro. Mike Voelker, although no longer teaching class, still is involved in the school, and has been given the almost impossible task of keeping the library as a quiet place for study. Brother recently celebrated his fiftieth anniversary in service to God.

Today I'm going to tell you about the time I sunk a submarine with my .45 . . . M. D'Alanno

In contrast to these veterans, St. Joe also has a large group of young teachers, who hope to gain success at St. Joe. Teaching primarily at the freshman and sophomore levels, such teachers as Mr. Coburn, Bro. Boehnlein, Mr. Halaiko and Mr. Rogers have the important job of instilling in their students the basic fundamentals needed for success at higher levels of studies.

Organizations

Get involved in some of St. Joe's extra curricular activities, and your high school years will be much happier." Most of us have heard these same words at one time, in one way or another, either from parents, friends, or relatives. Although some what over-worked, the phrase does have some merit. Experts tell us that a great deal of our out-of-class education takes place in extra curricular activities, and that associating with other students in such activities is important to our becoming socialized human beings.

Realizing this fact, the school has provided a wide range of clubs and activities for it's students, which they hope will cover most of the interest of the student body.

For the musically inclined there is the band and glee club. The band program, one of the largest activities in the school, is comprised of the marching, stage, and cadet bands. Performing at all football games, the marching band is the largest, and made up of members from all four classes. Rehearsal begins in the summer to prepare the band for the intricate halftime shows they perform. This year's band added a new dimension to their colorful shows by purchasing new uniforms. They were red with the letters 'SJH' on the back. The stage band is made up of the best instrumentalists, and has won many awards for its excellence. These band members also make up the orchestra for the musical.

"Get involved in some of St. Joe's extra curricular activities, and your high school years will be much happier."

The Glee club's many activities for the year have included Christmas and Spring concerts, and grade school tours. The club is divided into three main categories. The Freshmen, the regular chorus, and the best members of the club forming the Viking Chorale. Many of the Glee Club members have proven their talents by giving excellent performances in the musical.

Journalism and Communication is a big part of St. Joe's. Although not usually known by the majority of the student body and faculty, many students are busy trying to meet seemingly endless deadlines. These editors and staff members belong to the Carpenter, the Norseman, and the Viking. The Carpenter is a collection of some of the finest literary, and artistic endeavors undertaken by the students. The Norseman staff utilizes the talents of reporters, typists, and photographers. The newspaper is a very demanding activity, and usually requires extreme dedication by the editors and the moderator. This year's paper unfortunately had a bad start and eventually fizzled out until Mr. Coburn, and a new staff of juniors took over. The yearbook, has had a long tradition of excellence, since the appointment of Mr. Timothy Robertson as moderator in 1970. The staff that put out this book started at the end of their junior year. The co-editors attended a week long seminar at Kent State University during the summer. The entire staff met frequently over the summer to prepare themselves for September and the job ahead. The book was produced at a cost of over $12,000.00. It took the staff hundreds of hours to make the yearbook you are now reading.

Communications is the job of the Art Club and Film Arts Club. The Art club's major function is the production of the endless amount of silk screened posters ordered by different departments in the school. Also the Art club is mainly responsible for the scenery that is painted for the musical. The Film Arts club, reorganized from the old Cinema club by Mr. Jim Reinhard, has undertaken two major programs this year. The first was a 40 minute movie about the cross country team, and the football teams. The second was an elaborate multimedia presentation about St. Joes to be used for publicity purposes at grade schools.

Other clubs were organized to serve the school — the Big Brothers, Booster Club and the Adult Viking Club. The most important of these would have to be the Viking club. Made up entirely of parents, it's sole purpose is to pump badly needed revenue into the school. Through it's "Lucky Night" program, and the many special functions, the Viking club has been able to help offset some of the operating debt that the school has.

Clubs can be found that range from math and science to foreign languages. Although not usually having a large membership, they do provide a few students with something they enjoy.

Sports by Tom Liutkus

As the candidate members of the 1973 St. Joseph Varsity football team assembled in July, much optimism was expressed by the coaching staff as to their fortunes in the upcoming season. A good number of letterman, including a quarterback, wide receiver, middleguard and a safety as returning regulars, along with many other senior and junior hopefuls provided an array of talent that could improve the fine 6-2-2 mark of a year ago. Coach Bill Gutbrod predicted, "Well it's early to say, but I think we have an 8-2 ballclub."

Thus, after the sweat had been sacrificed, the cuts made, the plays memorized and the battle experience under their belts after three scrimmages, the Vikings would be given their first chance to prove if the expressed confidence by the coaches was truly justified. At a rally that Friday morning above a sign that read 10-0 Number 1, defensive coach John Gibbons spelled out the year with "How bad do we want it?" But the real question was were the Vikings ready for the Benedictine Bengals?

They proved not. Constant turnovers and mistakes on offense and a porous defense led to the opening loss at the hands of Bennies 14-0. The only thing that stopped a Bengal onslaught were penalties called on their team. The following morning the Cleveland Plain Dealer read: "It could be a long season for the Vikings . . .", such a prophecy St. Joe fans had never heard before. The Monday morning after the game, the toll had been taken. The coaches had seemed to be disgusted, the players hung their heads low, while the students, still in shock, did not know who to turn to for answers.

The following week, the St. Joe gridders travelled to Mentor in a game against the junior-studded Cardinal squad. A rather large Viking turnout came to see if the initial game was just a mistake and that the problems had been ironed out. The Vikes led quickly on a one yard plunge by junior Gary Monda but Mentor tied the score at 8-8 by half-time. Still the fans had hope. But the Cardinals stormed out of the lockerroom and eventually scored the go-ahead touchdown. The final score: Mentor 16 St. Joseph 8. It was a long trip back to East 185th that night.

Mayfield was next. This had to be the game that the St. Joe team would turn the early season around. The night before the game, a sign was posted on the Wildcat Stadium tower by the infamous I.M.F. force. It read: "On September 22, 1972, a powerful St. Joseph Viking football team met a crappy Mayfield Wildcat team and beat them 19-0. September 22, 1973 the same Viking team will face the Wildcats and this year it won't even be close!!!! However, the Viking gridders defeated their own cause. Countless fumbles, dropped passes and an inability to put the ball over in the muddled field, helped the revenge-minded Mayfield team put the clamp on their first victory of the year 18-0. It proved to be the turning point of the Wildcat season.

So being 0-3, shutout twice, unable to untrack any kind of potent offense, and showing the same inconsistency on defense, the number one team in the city entered Euclid Stadium the next week, arch-rival St. Edward's. Although the week spelled new enthusiasm for the players, the student body showed their disappointment and only a fair sized crowd was present. Despite that a fired up Viking team gave the St. Ed's team everything they could handle, until a tipped pass fell into the hands of an Eagle flanker for a fluke touchdown. Another touchdown later and a goal-line stand by the tough St. Ed line proved once again too much for St. Joe; St. Edward 12, St. Joseph 0.

The following week the most substantial shake-up in the battle torn line-up resulted. Junior Gary Trivisonno replaced Frank Pasqualone at quarterback, while Pasqualone moved to fullback. In addition, a new offense was inserted. The result was the first Viking victory of the 1973 season over neighborhood rival Collinwood, 21-0. St. Joe played its first total game. While backs Rick Longo, Gary Monda and Pasqualone ran up sizeable yardage on the ground, the defense led by co-captain linebacker Dave McIlwain stymied any offense the Railroaders could offer. The team found out how to win.

The Vikes made it two in a row against Chancel at the Beford school in front of a rather sparse crowd, the following Saturday afternoon. Although it took some time to get untracked, the offense took shape led by Frank Pasqualone's 100 yards, one touchdown and Gary Trivisonno's 40 yard touchdown pass to junior end John Delehanty. As the week before, the defense shut off the Firebird offense as the Vikings went home victors, 12-0.

Cathedral Latin invaded Euclid stadium homecoming weekend. A year ago, these two teams had battled for a number one rank in the city, in a game which ended in a 0-0 tie. This year, both teams had suffered. But tonight, Latin was to suffer more; the Vikes were to add to this misery. A touchdown on the opening kick off by junior John Ferrante spelled the eventual on-slaught of the Lions 28-0. Frank Pasqualone again rushed for more than 100 yards and scored a touchdown on a 73 yard run. Half-back Rick Longo and wide receiver John DeJohn also scored a touchdown apiece via aials from Trivisonno. For his performance in this game DeJohn made the P.D. Dream Team. But the defense was the big part of the game as they scored a safety and tied a school record of three shutouts in a row. Led by Dave McIlwain, end Mike Zele, guard John Holtzhauser, junior Bob Golic, and safety Joe DeJohn, the defense quelled the Lion attack time and time again.

Could the Vikes make it four in a row? Padua's Bruins, enjoying their best season since its inception, were next to face the Norsemen. Early in the third quarter of the hard hitting game, St. Joe scored on a Trivisonno to Longo pass and broke the ice 7-0. Padua came right back, scored a touchdown, however, and made the two point conversion to go ahead 8-7. Later, with just over a minute to go in the game, the Vikes went back on top with a field goal by Frank Pasqualone. But Padua put together a drive that drove the ball from their twenty seven yard line to the fifteen of St. Joe's. Seemingly stopped there, the Bruins lined up in field goal formation with thirteen seconds to go. Faked the kick and passed to a back on the seven who was tackled there. No one could explain why the field goal was not tried, but because of the decision, St. Joe squeaked by Padua 10-8.

Toledo Central Catholic followed Padua and took advantage of the inability of the Vikes to score and won the game 13-0. The defense played another superb game with three goalline stands but the offense couldn't get the vital points it needed.

The final game of the season was against Youngstown Ursuline. The game was built up to be the "pride" game for the Seniors. A busload of fans travelled to see if the Vikes could finish .500 but Youngstown Ursuline soon ended those hopes. With their all-state tailback gaining long gain after gain, the Irish built up a 33-9 lead. With a little over two minutes to go St. Joe scored twice on a John DeJohn pass reception and reverse fullback Mike Lundberg's five yard run. The final score, Youngstown Ursuline 33, St. Joseph 23.

"How bad do we want it?"

J. Gibbons

Five members of the team were elected to the all-Crown Conference team. They were: halfback Rick Longo, guard John Holtzhauser, tackle Mike Fortuna, defensive end Mike Zele, and linebacker Bob Golic.

Looking back on the season, it's hard to find the reasons for the bad record of 4-6. Was it the attitude of the players, the lack of spirited fans, the coaching, lack of physical size, or certain people who didn't produce? Whether it's any or all of these, the answer may still be found in Coach Gibbon's speech. "Just how bad did we really want it?"

This year the Cross-country team's season followed the tradition of past harriers, as being winners. Coached by Gary Nowac, the team was comprised of seniors Barry Pajcic, captain, and Keith Koepke; juniors Tom Tepley and Kevin Ryan; and sophomore Jack Madda. The team finished first in the Crown Conference meet, the Gilmour Invitationals and beat Reynoldsburg from Southern Ohio.

The big five also finished first in the sectionals but ended the season on a disappointing note by being nosed out of the state title hopes by a single point in the districts by Euclid.

The most valuable runner was junior Tom Tepley, who finished eighth in the state meet in Columbus. While the most improved runner was senior Keith Koepke.

"It was a heartbreak at the end of the year, not going to state." G. Nowac Unlike football, the basketball team's fortunes of 1973-74 were expected to be minimal. Very little experience and mediocre records as underclassmen were held as reasons. Prior to the first game, coach Bob Straub said, "Well, to be very honest with you, I'd be satisfied if we break .500." Thus, the fans knew beforehand what to expect.

In the season's opener at Erie Tech, the team's inexperience showed brightly as countless turnovers best the Vikes 80-62. Senior forward "Steady" Eddy Hace cut as a freshman, sophomore, and junior, paced the cagers with 17 points. Coming home to play Glenville, the team again beat themselves with too many turnovers. Despite captain Saul Cyvas' 30 points, the team fell 73-60.

St. Ed's was next. In the first Crown-Conference game of the year at the noise-filled Eagle gym, St. Joe broke to an early 8-0 lead in front of the now-silent, shocked Green Machine crowd, but the Eagles tied the score and eventually went on to win 49-34. Despite the loss coach Straub complimented the team's efforts. "I've never seen a team play to the end like these guys. They just won't quit."

The expressed confidence seemed to be enough to beat Chanel 71-65 the following week. But Benedictine followed and the blistering hot Bengals sent St. Joe once more down to defeat, 76-68. Senior forward Terry Markushic led the Vikes with 17 points.

The team travelled to Erie once more, this time to play Prep High School. Erie took up where Benedictine left off and added to the St. Joe miseries 77-57. Things looked awfully bleak as the Christmas tournament at

"Well, to be very honest with you, I'd be satisfied if we break .500." B. Straub

Warren Pa. approached. The team was 1-5 and having terrible luck on the road. The first round tournament game was against Jamestown High School of New York. Sophomore Jamie McGuire was brought up from the J.V.'s and led the team with 20 points as the Vikings beat the New York team 71-65. In the final game, Erie Prep again beat the Vikes, this time by nudging them 54-52. In this game, the lanky Lithuanian leaper, Saul Cyvas, broke the single game rebounding record by snaring 26 caroms.

Collinwood's Railroaders were next. St. Joe repulsed their neighborhood rival 65-55. At the half mark of the year, the team was 3-6, and showing new promise.

Against Padua, the Vikes won their first conference game of the year 66-57. The victory evened their Crown record at 1-1, as Jamie McGuire led the Viking barrage with 18 points. Things perked up even more now.

Latin invaded our gym the following week. Led by Harry Davis, the Lion's smothered the Vikings 64-51 with some fourth quarter shennigans by the 6'5" center. The loss was a tough one to swallow as their conference record dropped to 1-2.

St. Ed's was next in line. The whole student body had been waiting for this one for "obvious reasons. One of the finest displays of spirit and pride was displayed to those "turkeys" that night. The game was a seesaw battle until St. Ed's closed the gap in the final minutes, then went on to win 59-52. Junior forward John Delehanty led the team with 19 points while everyone else on the court gave 100% plus, in spite of the losing cause. The true Viking Class was shown, while the Eagles lack of it also was manifested during the singing of our alma mater. Bittered by the game, the team travelled to Youngstown to play the Irish of Ursuline High. The Vikings came closer than expected to the down-state power house but still lost 72-64.

Against nearby Wickliffe, victory was once again tasted. The Blue Devils just couldn't break the Viking jinx, that has plagued them for years, and the team went home a 65-55 victor. Despite the win, dissention had rocked the team by this time and three seniors quit.

Again they travelled down state. This time to play Mansfield St. Peters. St. Petes showed the Norsemen just why they were ranked number one in AA schools as they totally dominated the game and ripped the Vikes 81-57. The team bounced back right away the next week against Padua, at the Parma school. Down in the final quarter, the team surged past the Bruins 65-55. It looked like a breather was next in line before the seasons's final against Latin.

Max Hayes was no breather, however. St. Joe, despite a 20 point performance by Saul Cyvas, was up-ended by the West Senate school 60-55. Thus, in the season's last regular game of the year, the Team took advantage of a perfect time for an upset, stalled the ball for the last four and one half minutes of the game and beat Latin at the Lions Den 60-53. For his rebounding and defensive sparkle, Saul Cyvas made the P.D. Dream Team. The team ended the regular season 7-11.

"I've never seen a team play to the end like these guys. They just won't quit." B. Straub

For the sectional tournaments at Euclid, Shaw the number one ranked team in Cleveland, was the Vikings first opponent. Around the school the general feeling was the year was about over. But the team didn't want to hear it. Beating Latin the way they did gave them new incentive and pride in themselves. They promised a good battle, if not a victory.

The team was right. St. Joe went out there and really played scrappy, putting the pressure on Shaw. Saul Cyvas and Mike Gornik along with everyone else played superb defense. But the cloud eventually burst as the Cardinals nudged ahead with seconds to go and ended the Viking season 64-61. Everyone there went home proud of the team's effort that night.

Three members of the Vikings made the All Crown Conference team. They were seniors Saul Cyvas and Mike Gornik and sophomore Jamie McGuire.

At the end, the team did have the poor record as expected, but the amount of hustle and drive was well above what anybody had hoped for. They gave us all they had and then some. The team had class.

Wrestling seasons are usually judged by two things: the record and the amount of maturity a team has gained through the long season of sweat, sacrifice and total commitment. It is in these two reasons that the 1973-74 varsity wrestling team is indeed a success. The final record for the grapplers was 6-4-1.

The wrestling season started off with the ending of last year's. At that moment things were being prepared. This year's seniors began to build up for the upcoming season; the underclassmen were following the same example and during the summer, a good number of them were still doing the same. At the end of this year's football season, the grapplers knew it was starving time. Finally, when the muscles were strengthened, the fat sweated out, the wrestling technique and format down pat, coach John Storey's grapplers were ready.

At the joint rally with the basketball team in December, co-captain Jim Repicky sized up the first match, "We WANT Willoughby South". Co-captain Ken Marvar added "If we beat them we think we'll go undefeated."

Willoughby South had held a jinx over St. Joe for years. They stopped the previous teams from going undefeated. This year was no different. The Vikings fell 29-20 at the hands of the Rebels once more.

The second match was at Richmond Heights. The Spartans, generally a class AA power, handed the Vikes loss number two 35-17.

St. Joe bounced right back the next day against Chanel. Gaining nine decisions, three by pins, the Viking grapplers beat Chanel 37-10.

In the first Crown-Conference match against Padua, the Bruins, an up-and-coming mat power, ended any views of the Vikes taking the Crown Conference again 32-20.

Arch-rival St. Edward's was next for the grapplers. St. Joe quickly sent the Eagles home in defeat 38-12. After five matches, only co-captain Jim Repicky at 112 pounds and junior heavyweight Bob Golic were undefeated.

One of the most exciting matches of the year was against rival Euclid. Euclid wanted revenge for two previous losses while the Vikes wanted to make it three in a row. After a quick start by St. Joe, Euclid battled back and finally tied the score at 20-20 after the 185 pound match. Now it was time for the long awaited match of the year. Junior Bob Golic, undefeated, untied versus Panther Dan Fowler, undefeated, untied. The match would result from the outcome. Golic scored an early 2 points in the first period on a takedown but Fowler battled back within one. At the beginning of the third period, Golic quickly held Fowler in a bear-hug. The St. Joe stands were chanting "Go Bobby Go! . . . Go Bobby Go! . . ." By now, Golic had looked as if his energy was about to run out on him. Fowler then escaped. Time ran out. The two stallworths battled to a tie

"If we beat them (Willoughby South) I think we'll go undefeated." K. Marvar

2-2. The score St. Joseph 22 Euclid 22. Although they say a tie is like kissing your sister, either team would have gladly done it.

St. Joe then travelled to St. Edwards to take part in the Catholic Invitational Tournament. After two days of competition the team finished sixth. Jim Repicky took first place at 112 while freshman Mike Russo and Bob Golic took fourth in the 98 and heavyweight rounds respectively.

University School then visited the St. Joe gym and were quickly repulsed 35-14. Against Wickliffe another nail biting finish resulted. Going into the heavyweight match-up the Blue Devils were winning 21-17. Bob Golic was totally dominating his match when he put his man on his back. Seconds were ticking away as Bob struggled to pin his man. Possibly a second more was needed as time ran out and the Vikes lost a disappointing one 21-20.

The next day the team travelled to near-by rivals Collinwood. St. Joe took ten match-ups as they ripped the Railroaders 40-18. The following weekend saw the grapplers nose out two of the areas top teams. Against Cleveland Heights, the Vikes made it two in a row and finished the year on a winning note against Benedictine 25-21.

Recordwise the best wrestlers were: Jim Repicky 10-0-1, Bob Golic 9-0-1, Mike Russo 8-2-1, and Ken Marvar 8-3-0.

At the post season sectionals at Garfield Heights, the Norsemen finished fourth, qualifying seven members onto the districts. They were Mike Russo 98, Jim Repicky 112, Rick Kushan 132, Vic Grdina 138, Bob Meditz 145, Dan Sukys 155, and Bob Golic heavyweight. All but one of those members, freshman Mike Russo, were eliminated in the opening round. Russo finished fourth in the district and qualified for the state championship.

This year was no different for the Hockey team. The record was a disappointing one, managing only a tie. But the real story is in the effort, time and sacrifice coach Rogers, co-captain Tom Piatik and his players gave. Unlike public schools, St. Joe's doesn't have the facilities to practice with. Players have found themselves practicing at such odd hours as 11:00 at night to 1:00 in the morning.

St. Joe's is not without its fine talent though. Senior Tom Piatik has played in the East-West All-Star game for two years in a row. Another is senior goalie Rick Schultz. Rick risks his life every time he puts his skates on, ducking those pucks, but knocking most away. He has been called one of the finest goalies in the Cleveland area.

For sticking with the unruly hours, the sweat, and of course agony of defeat, these men are truly winners. Besides, there's no team out there that can beat them in a fight!

This was a rebuilding year for the track team. Only five seniors returned from last year's squad. They were: runners Barry Pajcic, Tom Bregar, and Rick Longo, hurdler Tom Langan and pole vaulter Bill Remy.

The year will have relied on many underclassmen hopefuls, such as junior runners Tom Tepley and Kevin Ryan, both noted for their prowess in the long distance events, shot putter Gary Monda and long jumper, sprinter John Ferrante. Coaches Nowac and Gutbrod were very pleased with the performances of the team in the K of C track meet. Although no one did well in the meet, the team did well as the year progressed. They did as fine a job as any team prior to their's, and with the abundance of quality underclassmen the coaching staff is looking forward to even better seasons ahead.

St. Joe baseball teams have been traditionally .500 or better ball clubs. This year's team will have been no exception to that rule. The team sports many returning regulars from last year's squad.

To begin, the pitching looked very bright. Senior captain Rick Lucas and Jeff Jaces returned along with relief pitcher Frank Babudar. The infield situation also looked good with shortstop Mike Kendzierski returning along with J-V hopefuls juniors Bob Golic and John Kenny, still another hopeful was sophomore Larry Hupertz. Seniors Joe and John DeJohn will have anchored the catching and outfield jobs. For Coach Terrence Thomas it was another fine year.

When you mention the word golf around St. Joe you've mentioned a sport in which the Vikings achieve brilliance thanks to the efforts of Coach Intorcio. From all indications, the outlook of this year's team was to be no different, other than a state championship was very possible. The reason is the overwhelming amount of experience on this year's team.

Coming back from last year's squad were seniors Don Delio, Jim Fiorta, Rick Chapman, Tony Straniero and junior ace Gary Trivisonno, the Cleveland area's number three amateur golfer.

This year, the bowling team was as in the past one of the top in the area. Virtually the whole team returned and continued the form they had last year as they finished this year 3rd behind Rhodes and Garfield Hts. High schools.

Leading bowlers on the team were, seniors, John Voso with a 188 average, Mike Vidra, 179 and Joe Gvora 175. Captain Voso, also scored the highest single game score of an almost near perfect mark of 290.

Other members of the team were seniors Skip Rodick, and Joe Klak, juniors Howie Briggs, Gary Znidar, and John Cattichio.

Here at St. Joes another sport in which excellence has been achieved is the rifle team. And to no one's surprise the 1974 rifle team again emerged as the state champions of Ohio. This is the seventh straight state's championship.

Throughout the year performances by seniors Pete Milicia, Joe Jerse, Greg Hink, and junior Greg Palmer led the way for the teams state championship. Other steady performers were seniors John Koval, Bruce Swartz, John Urankar, and sophomore John Martin.

From all indications by coach James Thomas and the members of the team, high standings in the National tournaments were quite possible. The amount of success this team had achieved in the tournament was truly a tribute to ex-coach Vern Rudder, the architect of the great rifle team dynasty.

This year, the tennis team, had one of the finest collection of talent ever assembled by coach Eugene Oberst. Hope is that the team will have improved over the 5-5 mark of a year ago.

Returning from last years team were seniors Chris Garapic, Terry Udovic, Gary Minadeo, and Steve Miscencik, juniors Chis Coburn and Tim Lekan along with sophomore hopefuls Nick Matteo and Eugene Oberst.

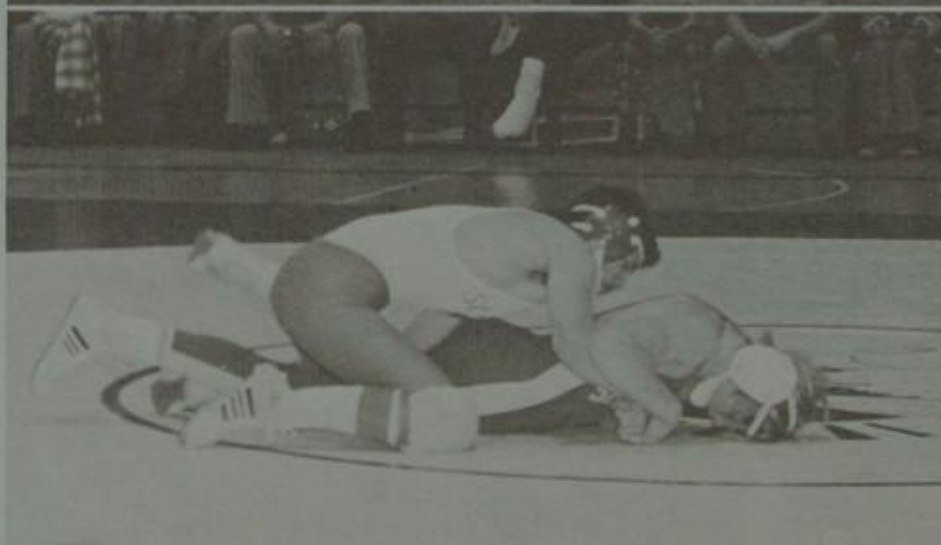

The team had the needed experience and a wealth of talent. Improving the 500 mark was well in their grasps.

Looking back on the whole year of sports, it can truly be said the true Viking tradition was stopped abruptly in it's tracks. The teams did not fair well as a whole, spirit was virtually non-existent on the once "high St. Joe standard," and there seemed to be a general apathy of both student and teachers alike. It is time to look back and evaluate the whole system.

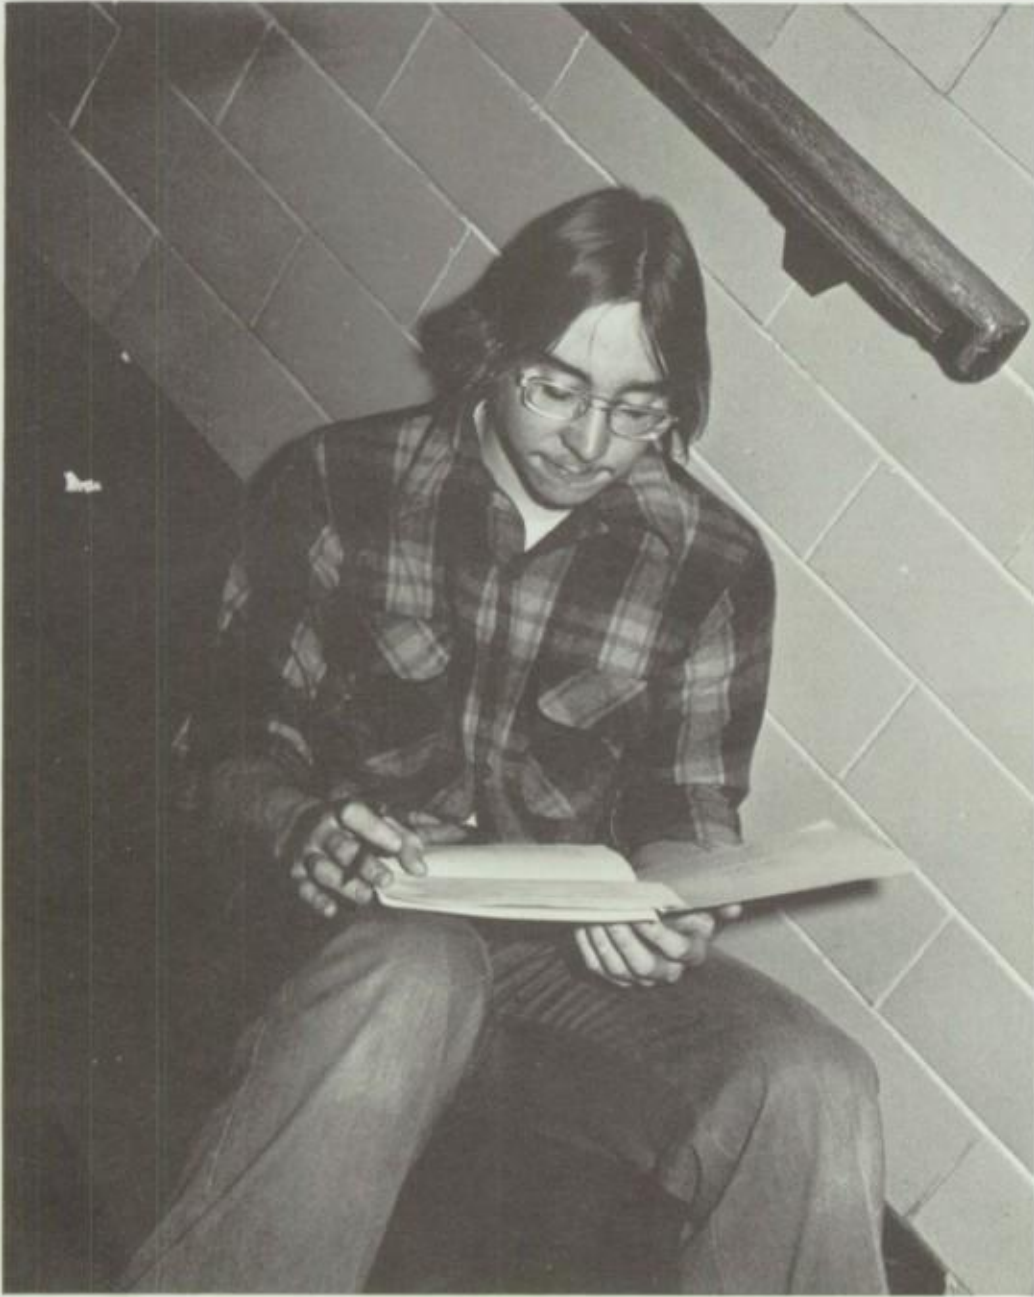

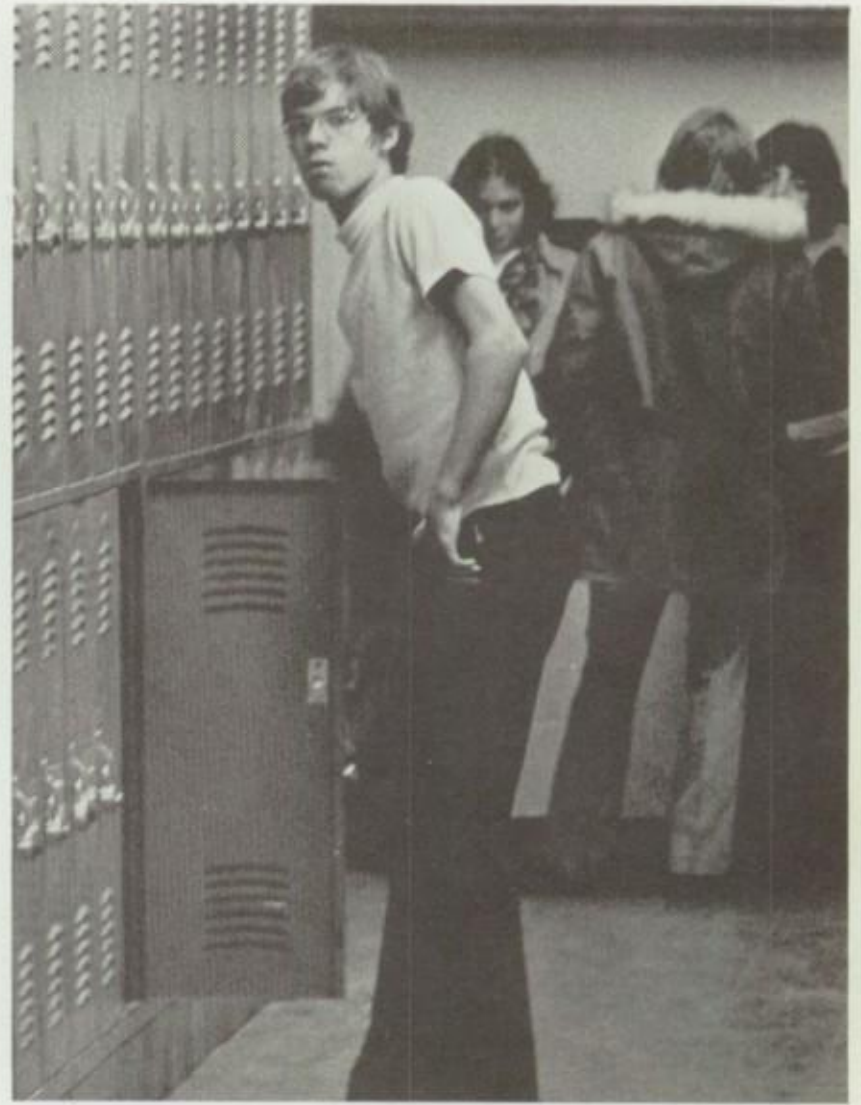

Years ago, all the Saint Joe teams weren't supposed to go undefeated or win state championships. But to get the success they did achieve, they worked hard to earn it. If a team was faltering, the whole student body got behind them and worked all the harder to improve. Although it's too late now to change any records we can still get a lesson from the class of 1971, when the seniors now were freshmen. Did you know that when that class's football team were freshman, they didn't win a game??!! Over their four years, not winning a game was unheard of. But that class worked hard and even by the time they were seniors, people thought they'd be terrible. What was worse, was when they lost to Euclid, they not only lost to their most hated rivals, but ended a 22 game win streak. How do you think they must have felt? But they were Vikings, true men and they united and finished that football season 8-2. That's what work can do.

So, at the end for all those athletes who didn't take advantage of their talent and really didn't work, what can anyone say but too bad, it could've been great. To those who took the time, put up with all the sweat, toil, aggravation, hard work and sacrifice, you may be the few members left of the "old days". You are also the hope of a return to the days of brotherhood and unity. To all of you true Vikings, thank you.

THE CHEERLEADERS

We laughed, we loved, we cried,
We lost, yet kept our pride
We tried to help St. Joe's
Deal victory over our foes.
We'd like to thank the fans
For your bodies, voice and hands.
And someday, sometime, someyear
You'll remember we were here.

Closing

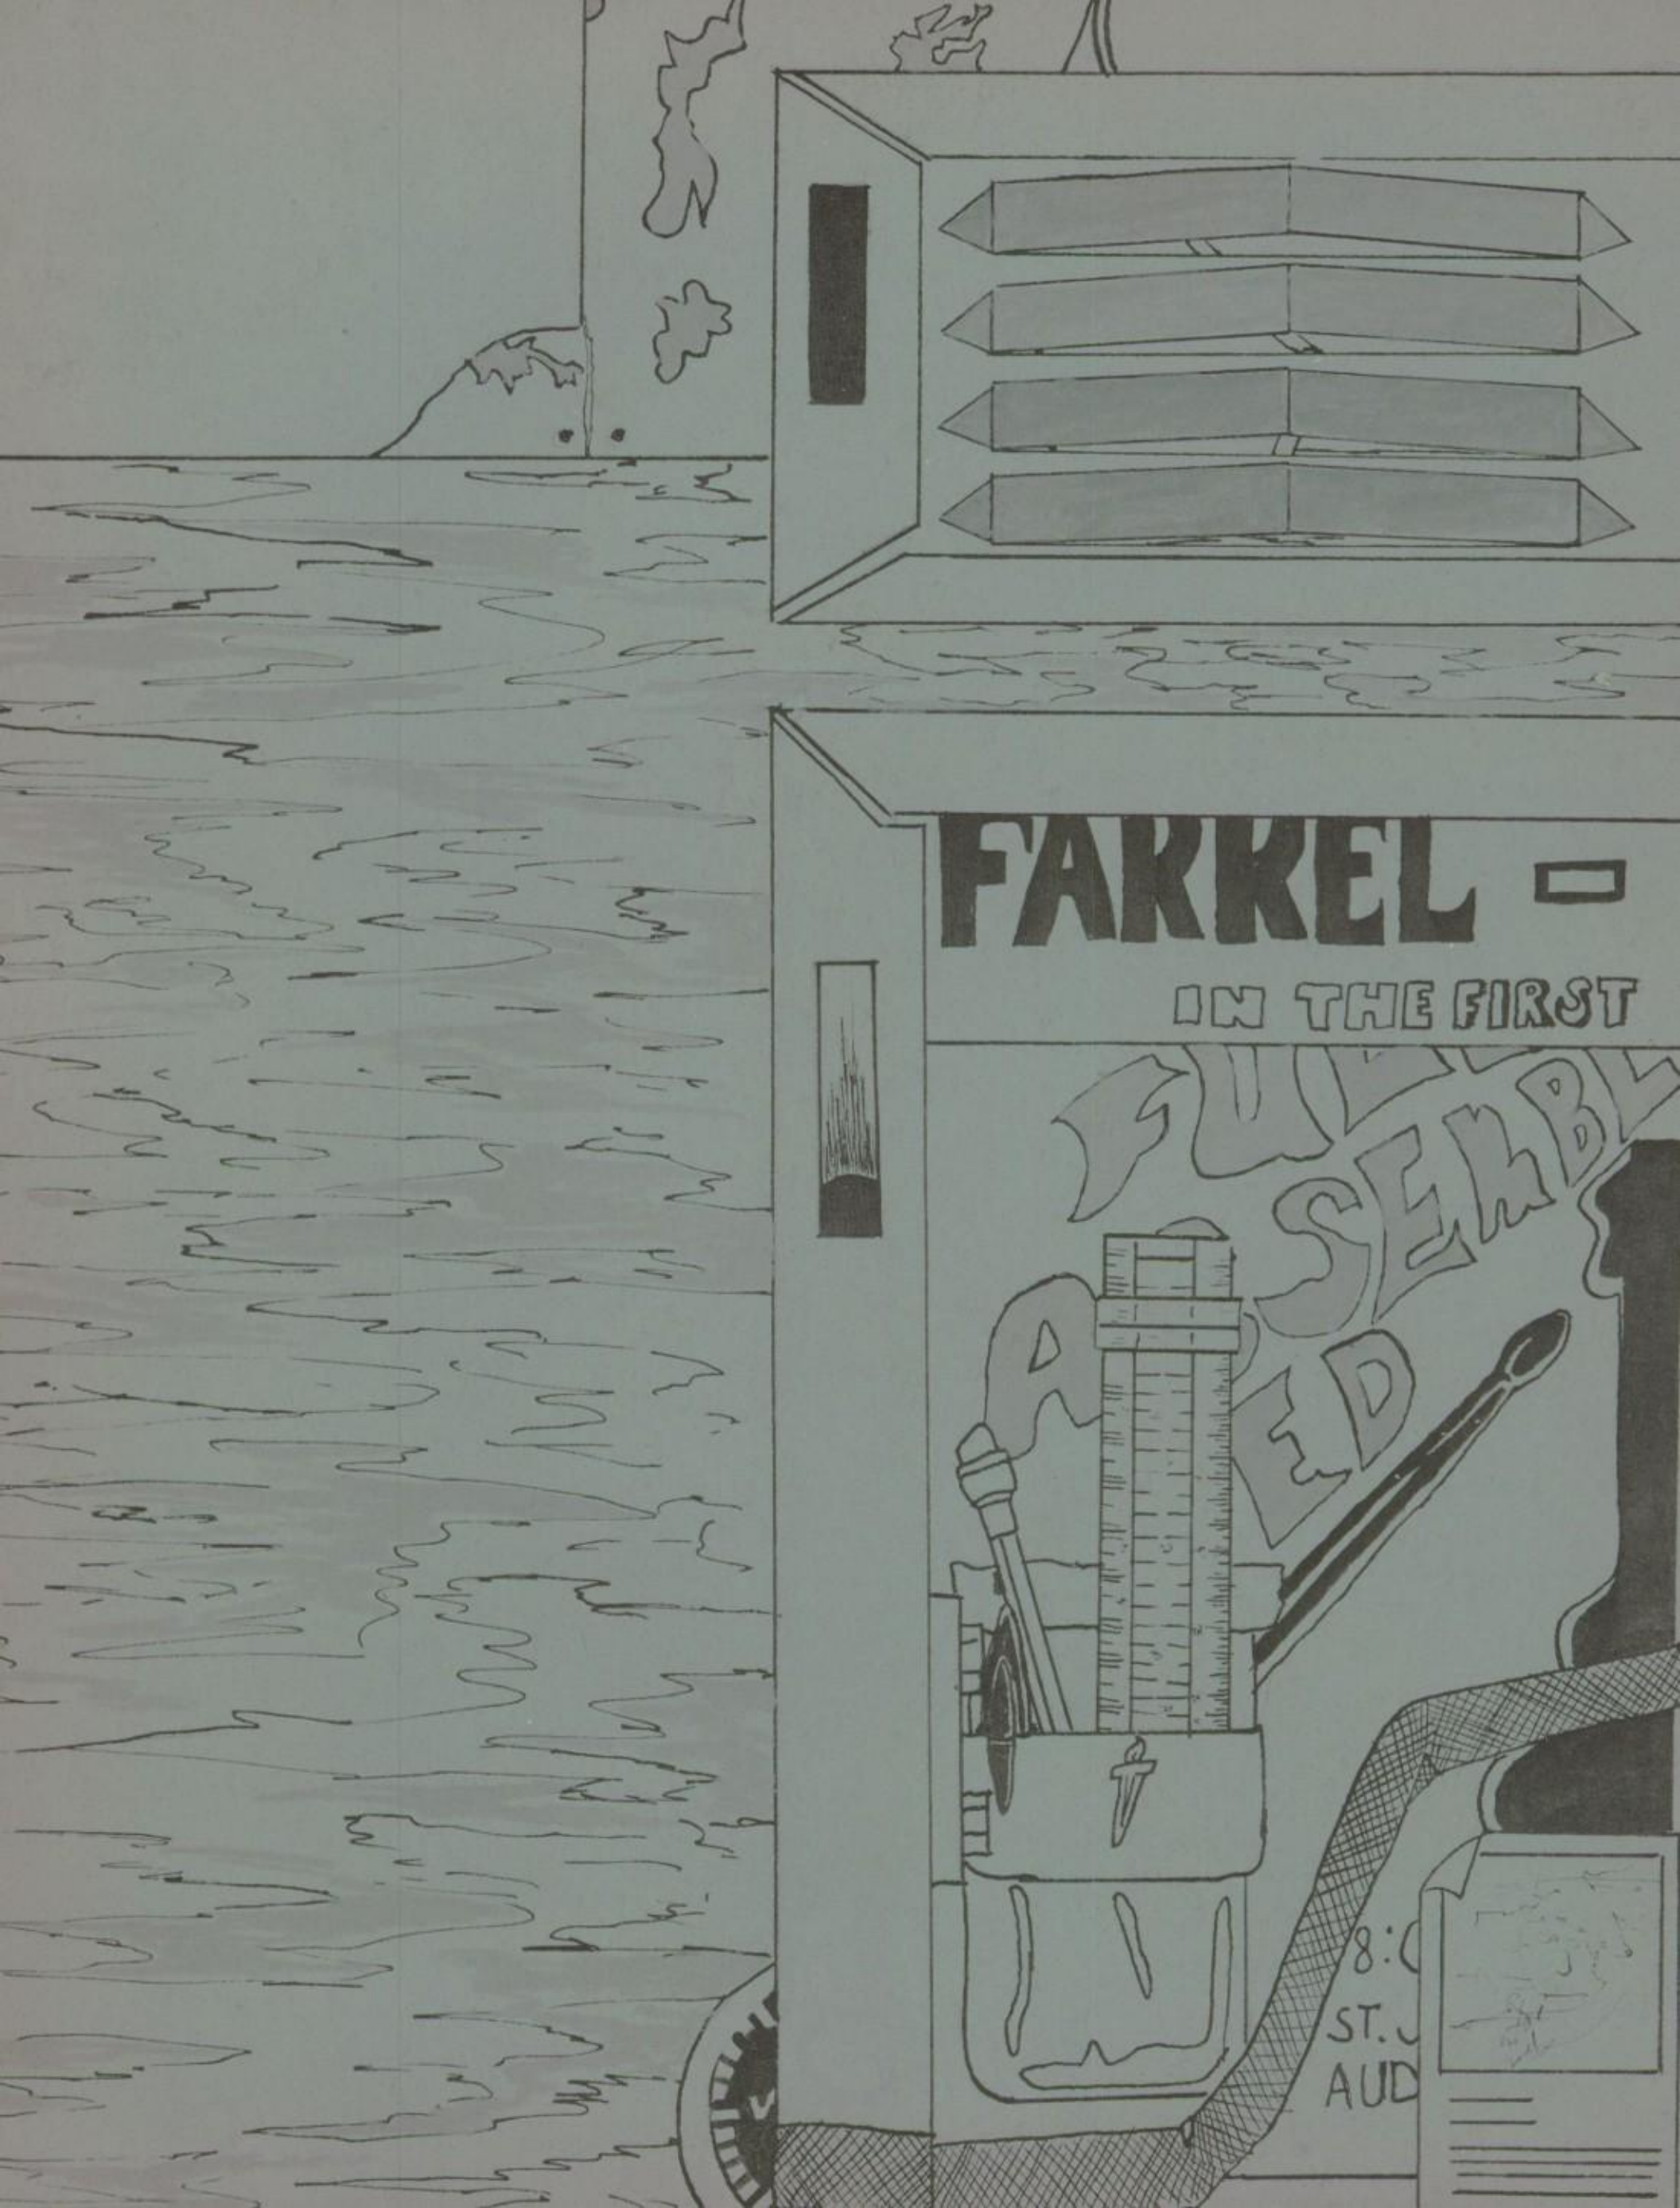

We would like to thank those staff members who, through their endless work and cooperation this book was made possible. They are: Bruce Swartz, Mike Brown, Bruce Mac Gillis, Tom Luitkus, Steve Misencik, Greg Hink and Richard "Chip" Fortenbaugh.

Thanks should also be given to Mr. Timothy Robertson, our moderator, for his knowledge, and his wife Georganne, for her patience; Mr. Michael McKelly, the publishing company representative, the deciding factor in our choice of Hunter Publishing Company; Raimor Studios, especially Bill and Morey, for their endless photographic training; Mr. Joseph Radican, our principal, for making it our book.

1974 VIKING

The 1974 VIKING is produced in a quantity of 1200 copies. The book is printed through the offset lithography process by the Hunter Publishing Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina. There are 272 pages, trim size 8½" x 11". The book itself is long bound with rounded backbone. The book was printed on 80 pound matte paper using Black-Black ink. The story and endsheets were printed on Gray No. 322 paper. The standard headlines are 24 point, style 181 Melior Bold. The copy is 6,8,10, and 12 point Melior. All headlines and body copy were written by the VIKING staff. The cover was manufactured by the S.K. Smith Company, Chicago, Illinois. The base color is Storm Gray No. 96 with black, blue and white silkscreened colors. The Senior portraits were taken by Raimor Studios, Cleveland, Ohio. Our operating budget was $13,000, obtained by student fees, book sales and a patron drive. The following people contributed photographs: Christopher Coburn, Gerard Dusa, Edward Jerse, Steven Kogovsek, Gregory Palmer, Mr. Stokel, Mr. James Thomas, and Clarence Zarobila.
